

Chammas & Marcheteau advises
Positive Aviation (new generation of water bomber aircraft) on its €8 million fundraising (Aerospace / Environment)

Chammas & Marcheteau advised Positive Aviation on its €8 million fundraising round, led by Falcon Investissement, alongside Toulouse-based NOGA (Donceux family), ARTS, and several private investors.

Founded in 2024, Positive Aviation designs and develops the FF72, a new-generation European amphibious aircraft (scooper and water bomber) intended to succeed the Canadair. By converting existing ATR 72 aircraft, the FF72 significantly reduces production and sales costs, while offering optimal operational performance and availability for wildfire suppression missions.

This funding will enable the Toulouse-based company to continue flight testing and certification of the FF72, with a first flight scheduled for summer 2026, and to strengthen its industrial and capital base in France.

The Chammas & Marcheteau team consisted of Denis Marcheteau (partner), Jeanne Cormerais (associate) and Nessrine Berrad (paralegal).

Magellan Asset Finance (Xavier de Taisne, Louis Lefevre) acted as financial advisor to Positive Aviation.
