

Chammas & Marcheteau advises Educapital on Edailabs' €5 million fundraising (AI / EdTech)

Chammas & Marcheteau advised Educapital, an impact fund specializing in education and the “future of work”, as lead investor in Edailabs' €5 million fundraising round, alongside Breega, Yellow Ventures, Seedcamp and DMG Ventures.

Founded in 2023, Edailabs develops Emma, an AI-powered language learning teaching assistant in the form of an interactive 3D avatar capable of engaging in oral exchanges with users like a teacher. Commercially launched in January 2025, the start-up already claims more than 500,000 users.

This financing will enable Edailabs to strengthen its teams in order to further develop its product and commercial operations, and to expand its linguistic offering, notably through the launch of new modules in Spanish, German and Italian.

The Chammas & Marcheteau team consisted of Denis Marcheteau (partner) and Arys Serdjanan (associate).
